

Social and Personal

THE unprecedented fineness of the November weather renders the promise of crowds at the Thanksgiving ball game, and of an unusual attendance on the part of the society girls and men, a foregone conclusion.

Everywhere, in the windows, on the streets, pinned to the coat lapels of young women and those of their escorts, will be the colors of the football teams of the Universities of Virginia and North Carolina. On every side will be seen motor car and tally-ho parties on their way to the ball grounds, where the struggle is to decide the supremacy of the orange and blue, or the blue and white, the Virginians, or the North Carolinians. The Richmond chapter of the Alumni Association of the University of Virginia will be the hosts of the day. They have left nothing undone to promote the enjoyment of their guests and to increase the spirit of good fellowship always characteristic of the day in Richmond.

The different clubs in the city will have their doors thrown wide, adding their part to the hospitalities shown visitors.

At the Jefferson Hotel auditorium the Richmond alumni will give a vaudeville performance in honor of their guests. The hour for this performance will be at 8 o'clock, instead of at 8:30, as at first announced. University songs will be sung between acts, clever hits will abound, and so will moving pictures.

The debutantes and other smart folk present will go from the auditorium to the Thanksgiving German at Masonic Temple, a committee in charge being Misses Archer Joyner, Carrie Minor, Fanny Scott, Camilla Wellford and Edith Donnan.

The German will open with the debutante figure, in which the buds of the season will make their appearance and lend to it a distinctive charm and grace. Then the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina figures will crown the day, before the hour for food and departure comes.

Certainly everything points to an ideal day for Thanksgiving and its annual game.

Headquarters Kept Open.
Headquarters of the Equal Suffrage League, at 101 East Franklin Street, will be kept open every day this week from 4 to 6 P. M. in honor of visitors to the Educational Conference.

These visitors are cordially invited to call and get literature and any information they may desire. A committee of league hostesses will be present every afternoon.

INSURANCE AGENT ROBBED.
Negroes Hold Up Mr. Colvin and Secure $50 From Him.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Alexandria, Va., November 23.—J. Colvin, an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was held up, assaulted and robbed of $50 Monday night while in the northwestern section of the city by two unidentified negroes. Two arrests have been made, but Colvin was unable to identify the negroes, although they are being held pending a further investigation on the part of the police.

The negroes robbed Colvin at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening. They asked him if he was carrying a "straight life man." Hardly had he replied in the affirmative than one of the negroes felled him with a telling blow over the left eye with a big rock rendering him unconscious for a short time. They went through his pockets, after which they decamped with the plunder. As soon as he recovered himself he telephoned the police and an investigation was at once begun, which resulted in the apprehension of the two negroes, one of whom had $15 in his possession.
